

Questions to ask estate agents

You should invite a few different estate agents round to value your home, and ask the following questions to help you decide which company to use.

- How much do you think my property is worth and what asking price would you suggest?
- Have you sold properties similar to mine recently - and if so, how quickly and how much for?
- How many buyers have you got looking in my price range?
- Do you vet buyers to check their situations and affordability?
- Where will you advertise my property?
- Will you pay for featured listings on property portals?
- Is there anything I should do/change about the property before listing it?
- What would you emphasise to buyers when showing them around?
- Will you accompany buyers on all the viewings?
- Do you do weekend and evening viewings?
- Will it be you selling my property, or a different member of the team?
- How will you follow up with prospective buyers after they've viewed the property?
- Can I track viewings and feedback on your website?
- What is your fee, and is it negotiable?
- What are the tie-in and notice periods?
- How much would you charge for an energy performance certificate?
- What estate agency qualifications have you/your staff got?
- Which redress scheme do you belong to?
- Can I see a copy of your terms and conditions?

Your notes:

Need a mortgage for your new home?

Which? Mortgage Advisers will search every product on the market and recommend the best deal for your individual circumstances. They can also advise on whether you should port your current mortgage or apply for a new one. Call today for a free chat on

0800 197 8033